0 newly reported.

0 open cases.

Workman's compensation risk assessment, based on prior year, did really well.

Blood-born pathogen training information was sent out. It must be done every year. Erin suggested scheduling it as a group if that would be better/easier for some of the Plant Operations employees.

Building and Grounds Inspections:

Chapel - Chaplain moved to Fahey, office spaces will be used for something else.

- There are some cement pieces over the door, behind the gutter that appear to be falling down and will be looked at.

Roberto Rivera has the paperwork on the liquid brine used on walkways if anyone has questions.

Joe Spirko reported on the new lighting in the fieldhouse and Memorial Hall. The light switches are now by the doors instead of in the breaker panels.

Mike Becker reported that harnesses and other safety equipment have been ordered for Fahey. The Pennsylvania 811 conference will be taking place at Ag Hall and he plans to send some employees from the college.

Inspections of safety showers and eyewashes are being worked on.

Brett Fulton reported that the paving outside Walz is well underway. Uneven walkways have been fixed. Parking area is larger.

Erin Murray reported that the occupational safety portion of L.V. Healthworks has been taken over by a new company.

The website will be updated with the new paperwork, which will all be handled electronically. Tests will now be done in-house - x-rays, lab work, etc..

May be able to use them for biometric screenings. Erin will look into this.

They offer Ubers to provide transportation to and from appointments - Brian is looking into potential risk with this.

Encouraged to stay away from using Patient First.
